

e-File

Mr. Mong Sao Pru resides in a very remote corner of a hill district. To apply for a job he required a tribal certificate. The deadline for application was near and the prospect of travelling through the hills and valleys to the district headquarter to apply and receive the certificate turned his hope quite grey. But with the help of an internet-modem he got access to the E-file system and dropped an application for the certificate. Immediately he received an online acknowledgement and a tracking number. Before long the head of the office took notice of the application. It quickly came down along the hierarchy of the office with a 'Very Urgent' tag. Mr. Mong Sao Pru checked his application status on the web time and again with the help of the tracking number. An e-file was put up on the application in due time. It went up along the hierarchy of the office for the approval of the head of the office. Though at that time he was out of station for official duty, an email notification on his smart phone prompted him to give approval using a mobile phone-based e-File App. Soon the office emailed the certificate to the applicant. Mr. Mong Sao Pru did not require to pay any physical visit, stay few days in the headquarter for the certificate. Moreover, with the timely receipt of the certificate he could now apply for the job.